

On October 16-18, 2012, the Ministry of Justice held "Canada and Taiwan Convention on Human Rights workshop" which was co-sponsored by the Canadian Trade Office in Taiwan and Taiwan Foundation for Democracy on the 5th floor auditorium and invited Erin Brady and Laurie Sargent, both are Senior Counsel of the Department of Justice Canada, to have speeches which focused on the experiences in the implementation of the equal rights and anti-discrimination rights, cultural rights and the right to cultural diversity, fundamental liberties and rights of fair trial in Canada. There were 510 people participated in this event, including 170 public servants of the central and local authority.

