

On January 30, 2013, Lord Dobbs, a member of British House of Lords visited the minister of Justice and exchanged views on a wide range of human rights issues and the death penalty. There were a total of 10 people participated in this event.

